

DAY 1: NAIL DOWN YOUR PERSONAL PREPPING PRIORITIES

Source material: Genesis 41 (Joseph Storehouse Principle)

1. Who are you listening to?

What authoritative voices are you listening to right now? Do you need to seek out any new, trustworthy resources?

2. What kind of emergencies might you need to prepare for?

Consider: Probable weather disasters for your region, what kind of personal emergencies you might face, what socioeconomic or political disasters you need to factor in, etc. List as many as you think might be relevant to you.

3. What is most urgent, based on the signs you're seeing?

Like how Pharaoh received two different dreams (two signs), are you seeing multiple different signs indicating that a certain issue would be the most urgent to prepare for?

a.) Pick three types of emergencies that you are going to prepare for first (or next).

List them in order of priority:

1.

2.

3.

#3 continued...

b.) Hold yourself accountable to preparing by a certain date.

I will be prepared for scenario #1 by _____.

I will be prepared for scenario #2 by _____.

I will be prepared for scenario #3 by _____.

4. What practical steps do you need to take?

Maybe you need to organize a spot in your basement to store supplies first... don't despise small beginnings! What are your first steps?

Scenario #1:

Scenario #2:

Scenario #3:

5. Who is your accountability partner?

Share your plans with them and ask them to hold you accountable to your timelines!

6. Who are you building a legacy for?

Who are you doing this for? Who is going to benefit from your preparations? Whose needs do you want to consider as you are preparing? (ie Immediate family and pets, elderly parents, grandchildren, etc).

Share your Day 1 homework or major takeaways in the Suburban Prepper Moms Facebook group! See what others have to say too.